PARISH FINANCIAL REVIEW

Recognizing our responsibility to transparency and sound fiscal practices, the United States Catholic Conference of Bishops decided about three years ago that all parishes with annual income of $750,000 or more must perform a thorough financial review on an annual basis with an approved CPA firm. Parishes with less than $750,000 a year of annual income must perform the review every two years either with an approved CPA firm or the Archdiocese Finance Office.

Three Holy Women Parish has more than $750,000 a year of annual income. Accordingly, consistent with the Bishop's directive and our absolute commitment to you to be fully transparent and ensure that all proper procedures and protections are in place we have done this review each of the past two years with an approved CPA firm Baker Tilly Virchow Krause LLC.

The result of the review last year and the review just completed this year are that there were "no exceptions" found. This means that the outside firm has determined we are following established procedures and have appropriate protections in place to ensure that the cash and finances of the parish are handled as they should be.

The CPA firm and the Archdiocese Finance Office made recommendations during the review procedure last year to further strengthen our systems and procedures. Each recommendation made was minor in nature and was immediately implemented.

These systems, procedures and protections are designed to ensure that cash is protected and accounted for from the moment you place your contribution into the collection basket until the moment it is deposited in our bank account.

They are also designed to ensure that bills are paid properly and on time, that two signatures are on all checks, that all accounting is in place properly and there is substantiation for every dollar of expense.

Director of Finance & Property

FROM YOUR PARISH PRIESTS

Dear friends,

Today I mark my sixth weekend preaching and teaching about the changes that will be occurring in the prayers we use at Mass. I will be at Three Holy Women over the next two weekends and then will wrap this up with a session with the teachers at Catholic East in mid-November. After giving these presentations so many times, I am very much looking forward to getting back to preaching on the Scriptures.

Over the past 6 weeks, I've received a wide variety of comments about these changes. Some comments have been optimistic, such as: "well, that doesn't seem so bad" or "at least these changes aren't as drastic as the ones we went through in the sixties." On the other end of the spectrum are those who perceive these changes as part of an effort to undo the reforms of the Second Vatican Council and as a distraction from the important work of protecting our children from sexual abuse and holding perpetrators accountable for their crimes. Most of the people I have spoken to at weekend masses have not weighed in one way or the other.

While I can help our parishioners understand what the changes are and why they are occurring, I cannot make anyone like them. It is my hope, however, that with time the new wording of these prayers will become as familiar as the words we have been using and that they will become prayerful for us. Father Tim, Father Mike and I have begun working with the new texts to become comfortable with the many changes we will encounter in the prayers the priest prays. In many places, the new wording is quite beautiful. In other places, the words are not as easy to get down. It will take time for all of us to get used to all of this.

The changes in the wording of the Mass will be implemented fully in 27 days. Can I ask all of us to do our best to be as open about this as we can? Can we join together to help one another offer fitting worship to our God? If we can do these two things, we will be just fine and this transition will not be as challenging as some fear. I am confident that we can do this well.

In Christ's love,
Fr. Brian

Memorial Acclamations

Corinna Laughlin and Kristopher W. Seaman

The Memorial Acclamation follows the Institution narrative—the words Jesus used at the Last Supper over bread and wine. This acclamation, therefore, is our response to God's coming to dwell among us, particularly in the transformation of bread and wine into Christ's Body and Blood. All of the Memorial Acclamations mention death and Resurrection. This is mysterium fidei: "The mystery of faith." We call this, technically, the Paschal Mystery. In the face of death, God raised Christ Jesus from the dead to new life. The three acclamations above go one step further than simply stating the mystery of faith or the Paschal Mystery; they acknowledge that we too are called to life made new. In death, in sin, in pain and suffering, God will bring about life. For example, the third acclamation ends with "you have set us free." As disciples, we are given the nourishment of Christ's own Body and Blood that brings new life and transformation. This transformation is God's liberating self given to us through and in Eucharist.

A special thank you to our host families who opened their homes to the Choir members and chaperones: Joyce and Dick Talsky, Aquilino and Amy Dael, Jean and Bob DeVita and Barb and Bob Schuelke. Further thanks to the office staff for all their work in providing lunches for the Choir: Mary Robertson and the parish choir members, Daisy Rivera, Terri Balash and Michele Bergemann.
